"The biggest problem I saw with going to university is that it is hard to get work experience and if you went straight to work you lacked the qualifications, so missed opportunities. This made it clear that I wanted to do both, so that is why I chose an apprenticeship over university."

Your future. Sorted. #GenerationCGI

Exciting apprenticeship opportunities.

You've finished school/college and it's time to find a new direction. So how does working on a real-life project at the same time as working towards a qualification sound? Plus, you'll get paid too!

Our apprenticeships give you lots of choice. We offer higher apprenticeships if you want a professional qualification in a particular area but aren't quite sure if doing a degree is right for you, or we offer degree apprenticeships, enabling you to get a debt-free degree from a great university, all whilst gaining invaluable on the job experience working for us.

Our apprentices have had some exciting experiences as well. From working on a top secret national security project through to helping to finalise multi-million pound contracts. This is real work in real times and it could be very real for you.

"The thing that has stood out for me the most is the people. I have been truly impressed with how they support you in developing in your role. I have always received help when needed and everyone I have approached has always taken the time to talk to me."

Luke

“When I look back to life before completing the CGI degree apprenticeship and life now, the single biggest benefit is the belief I now have in my abilities both academically and professionally. It means I never second-guess myself when considering future training and learning opportunities and, what’s more, standing in front of people to speak and deliver presentations is no longer daunting!”

You’ve got a career in mind. We’ve got the solution. #GenerationCGI

"I love how I'm treated by my colleagues; as an equal, rather than someone fresh out of college and still studying for a degree. There is a real sense of camaraderie between apprentices as well."

#GenerationCGI Gets it done.

There's more to it than you think.

We support intelligence-led policing that better meets the challenges of 21st century crime.

We deliver an end-to-end fuel payments system that enables Shell's customers to manage their commercial fleets across the world.

Thanks to our remote monitoring, Adept Power Solutions can now rapidly alert suppliers and customers when one of their standby power solutions has an issue.

We partner with Defra to help them exploit Earth Observation data and prepare for future challenges.

Working with her Majesty's Courts and Tribunals Service, CGI launched a new digital service to improve the juror summoning process in England and Wales.

We work together with the Marine Management Organisation to monitor the detection of illegal, unregulated and unreported fishing.

Everything you'll ever need. #GenerationCGI

“CGI works hard to support women in tech. For example, we’ve set up a support network where women can talk about developments in the industry, and where they can connect with leaders across the business. We’re actively involved in industry events that promote women in IT and engineering. From personal experience, I know that CGI has supported my own career development every step of the way.”
